California Politics.

The situation in California begins to grow interesting. The Alta says:

> There seems to be a very lively row going on in the Democratic camp at this moment. Thirteen Democratic papers favor the latest manifestation of Gov. Haight; are satisfied that he is right now at last; furthermore is going to stick till the campaign is over. On the other hand, eight equally staunch and prominent "organs" hold on with great tenacity to the Haight of last year; swear that he was dreadfully and fearfully constitutional at that date, and is the man for their money. What is to come of all this no mortal can tell. One thing is certain, the Haight of last year is as unsubstantial as a shadow; besides, he is another individual. We apprehend therefore that metaphysics will be the main question at issue in the campaign for some time to come. It is understood that Gov. Haight rejects all antecedent Haights as spurious. The real Haight, according to him, has only just efflorescd. He is now in full bloom, and will so continue until the adjournment of the Democratic Convention.

That staunch old Democrat, Alec. Montgomery, of the Mendocino Democrat, has taken a terible fit of disgust over the published correspondence between Haight and Andy Johnson, wherein the former called upon the Government for troops to guard the polls in San Francisco at the last Presidential election. Hear him:

> But now comes Haight, the Governor of this proud Commonwealth—made so by Democratic votes—in a yet more pitiable position. Now comes Haight, we say, to demean the Democratic party of California; place it in ignoble position, contrary to all the principles of the party and contrary to natural manhood; to make it bend a suppliant knee to the Administration at Washington, and ask that it will furnish him, Gov. Haight, with authority to use United States troops to protect the ballot box and keep order at the election polls—the election polls of California. Was ever a Democratic party more basely insulted by a chief of its own choosing? Was ever a trusting Democratic community so outrageously misrepresented? Did ever a State Executive, claiming to the shadow of shade of Democratic principles, show such a terrible picture of innate weakness? We're disgusted, nauseated.

The Stockton Independent thus comments on the "railroad issue:"

> The railroad question will be the leading issue in the next gubernatorial fight in California. The questions of public policy that have heretofore afforded themes of discussion for the press and the rostrum are hereafter to be ignored. We shall have no more dissertations from Democratic orators to prove that the negro is the inferior of the white man, or that Chinese immigration is the great cause of hard times in California. Democratic artists will not picture their opposing candidates as staggering under the weight of a pyramid made up of individuals of the inferior races, for the reason that those were the great issues of the Democratic party in the Haight and Gorham campaign of 1867, were, by the election of Gov. Haight and the broad statesmanship of the Democratic party, settled forever. It is true these questions have not been treated exactly as the rank and file of the party expected they would be, nor as Gov. Haight and his supporters promised, yet they are settled, and Gov. Haight is too shrewd a politician to attempt to make another gubernatorial fight upon the platform of 1867. It is evident, however, that he likes to be Governor of this State, and wants to reside in the Governor's mansion, which the last Legislature in its wisdom decided to tax the people to build. He knows that to be elected he must bring up some new issue, and give his strikers some new catch-word to tickle the ears of the masses, and with a cunning that stamps him as the very prince of demagogues, he pitches upon the question of railroad subsidies, and puts forth his proclamation to his retainers that they may early learn his war-cry.

Congressman Johnson is coming back from Washington at once to take the field against Haight. Johnson has many backers, and it is quite possible that he may beat the subsidy-anti-subsidy Governor for the nomination.

The "Martyr" Business.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

In 1852, Louis Kossuth came to this country to procure the interference of the United States to rescue Hungary from the jaws of Austria and Russia. He was a man of eminent ability, and gifted with remarkable eloquence. He was received with great enthusiasm by the American people. States and cities welcomed him. Both branches of Congress voted him a public reception, and he was formally received on the floors of Congress. There was an immense amount of speech-making in Congress and out of it. Kossuth was banqueted and toasted publicly and privately, and for a long time he thought there was a purpose on the part of the Government to aid him. He was soon undeceived. Except a very absurd resolution by General Cass, to suspend diplomatic relations with Austria, which resolution was rejected, no person in the United States seriously proposed that this country should interfere in the affairs of Russia or Austria. The "bird of freedom" had a very handsome flight for a few months, and then Kossuth left the country in despair.

Last week there arrived in New York a number of individuals who have been pardoned by the British Government, and released from prisons where they have been confined, after trial, for sedition. There has been the usual struggle among the politicians of New York for the exclusive right to receive and honor these persons, and secure their votes. Tammany succeeded in getting ahead of Collector Murphy, and claims the honor of having done the proper thing. By way of flanking Tammany, General Butler got a resolution through the House of Representatives providing for a welcome, thus repeating the precedent which was set, nearly twenty years ago, in the case of the great Hungarian.

Resolutions, and receptions, and welcomes are very cheap in this country—so cheap that they have little, if any, significance. In the case of Kossuth they amounted to cruelty, because they inspired hopes which were not to be fulfilled. The refusal of the nation to interfere in behalf of Hungary, beyond a mere resolution of sympathy, was properly rated by Kossuth as illustrating the mockery of the welcomers. So, in the case of these Fenians; the welcome, at the most, is but an empty, meaningless act, to be followed the next day, if required, by a solemn declaration that the United States have not the remotest intention of interfering with Great Britain in the affairs of her government, or in her method of pardoning political prisoners and convicts.

The Fenian captives (we allude now to their captivity in Sweeny's Hotel) have come to the United States, practically, as exiles. Whether it is contemplated to revive and continue the old farce of running an Irish Republic, with the government on this side of the ocean, has yet to be seen. If they come to ask homes for themselves and their families, and the free and equal enjoyment of the rights and privileges of American citizens, they will meet, not merely with a verbal, but a substantial welcome. But if they come here to ask national intervention between Ireland and Great Britain, they should be frankly told that that is out of the question. If they come here to organize and equip military expeditions against Canada, or other British American provinces, they should understand that the American people have had enough of that business, and will endure no more of it. If they have any lingering hope that they can raise an army, or equip a navy, to descend on Ireland, it will be but charity to satisfy them that such projects are delusive.

The time for agitation in the United States for reforms in the British government of Ireland has passed, and, in general, except so far as affording individual aid to persons in Ireland, all further organizations or proceedings in this country, threatening the peace and government of the country, may be rated not only as absurd, but too impudent to be treated with ordinary respect. The best thing these Fenian gentlemen, therefore, can do is, as soon as the demagogues have got through with them, to devote themselves to their respective professions, and apply their talents and education to some useful calling. Martyrdom is a superabundant article in this country. Martyrs of all kinds are to be met at every street corner, and can be drummed up on the shortest notice; and the business has ceased to pay expenses, even when the victims have the "most glorious" records.

Chicago and the Northern Pacific Railroad.

A correspondent of the Advance, of Chicago says:

In the opinion of your correspondent and of many of the most sagacious men-of-affairs hereabouts, a commercial enterprise which has been recently and successfully launched, promises greater advantages to Chicago and the great northwest, of which she is the capital, than all other movements of the day combined. I refer to the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad, which is now progressing unpretentiously but steadily westward, through Minnesota and Dakota, on its way to the Pacific and Puget Sound. With a map in hand, glance a moment at the railroad system projected and now being developed by the powerful corporation which has this great work in hand.

At Duluth the main arm of the Northern Pacific road connects with the commerce of the lakes, having a water line to Buffalo, via Lake Superior, practically as short as that from Chicago to the same point. At St. Paul the southeastern arm of the Northern Pacific taps the commerce of the Mississippi river at the head of navigation, and unites with the system of roads centreing at Chicago and communicating with the Atlantic States.

These two arms, starting from the great lake and the great river, unite in a trunk line in western Minnesota. This crosses the Red river near Georgetown, where it gathers to itself the trade of the entire Winnipeg region and the Hudson's Bay Company, now carried on the steamers of this navigable northern stream. Near the Red river crossing a branch road leaves the main line and reaches out to Pembina, on the British border, thus permanently rendering tributary to itself the trade of her Majesty's fertile provinces west of Lake Superior.

In central Dakota the Northern Pacific road will cross the Missouri, where it will again receive the concentrated traffic of 1,500 miles of river navigation—the upper Missouri, the Yellowstone, and the lower Missouri. Following up the alluvial valley of the Yellowstone through Montana, and piercing the rocky range at Deer Lodge Pass, the road will again divide, one branch crossing the Cascades through central Washington to a terminus on Puget Sound, the other western arm descending the rich basin of the Columbia river to Portland, Oregon, where tide water will also be reached, and where connection will be made with the railroads of the Pacific States. Then a short line, connecting the two western termini, will complete the Northern Pacific railroad system.

This is certainly comprehensive. It also seems to have the merit of perfect practicability. The recent purchase of the St. Paul and Pacific roads by the Northern Pacific shows the importance the latter attaches to a southeastern outlet, via Chicago by rail, in addition to its confessedly advantageous water communications at Duluth and St. Paul. It needs both, and very wisely and promptly has secured both.

Now, this great northern road is developing a region of country simply imperial in extent, and hardly surpassed for fertility of soil and salubrity of climate by any equal area on the continent. Unlike large portions of the belt traversed by the Union and Central Pacific roads, that tributary to the Northern Pacific line has, almost without exception between Lake Superior and the Pacific ocean, a happy combination of the three elements essential to profitable agriculture, viz: A natural rich soil, a mild climate, and sufficient rain-fall. Prosperous agricultural States will speedily rise along our northern belt, as they cannot do in the more southern and arid latitudes, and the influence these communities, with their great thoroughfare, will have on the adjacent and tributary British provinces may be summed up in the one word, annexation.

It is 200 miles less distance from Chicago to the Pacific ocean, at Puget Sound, via the Northern Pacific route, than it is from Chicago to San Francisco by the present line of road. Add to this fact that the sailing distance between Puget Sound and Shanghai is 800 miles less than between San Francisco and Shanghai, and it is easy to see how vital an interest Chicago has in the new trans-continental highway now building.

That the Northern Pacific road, with its advantage of 600 miles in distance between the lakes and the commerce of the Pacific ocean, with its advantage of 1,400 miles, by water and rail, between New York or Liverpool and the ports of Asia, will have its full share of the through traffic between east and west, none need doubt. But there is room for both the Northern and Central, and both will speedily have enough to do. From the outset, much of the summer and more of the through winter business of the Northern Pacific line must centre at and pass through Chicago, Duluth and St. Paul will be greatly benefited, and each in its field will reach a handsome growth; but as the old Northwest already is, so the new Northwest may, by a judicious course, be rendered practically tributary to this city.

PERSONAL ITEMS.

The strong-minded colored woman, Sojourner Truth, is active and vigorous as she was 20 years ago, though not far from a centenarian.

Report hath it that Gen. Beauregard intends to make Paris his permanent place of residence as soon as the condition of France is settled.

Gen. Manteuffel bears quite a striking likeness to Gen. Fremont, and before the war, was often taken for him, by Americans traveling on the Continent.

Maj. Zagonyi, who led the famous charge of Fremont's body-guard at Springfield, Mo., the first year of the war, is said to be keeping a cigar shop in Pesth, Hungary.

The ease with which titles are obtained in Europe, is shown by the fact that Stultz, the fashionable London tailor, was made a Baron by the Grand Duke of Baden for endowing a hospital at Carlsruhe.

Canrobert, who was supposed at the beginning of the Franco-German war, to be one of the ablest Generals in France, was hardly ever heard of during the war. Shut up in Metz with Bazaine, he was included in the surrender, and then disappeared from the scene.

J. Scott Harrison has tendered the tomb of his father, the late President, Wm. Henry Harrison, to the State of Ohio, on condition that the remains shall not be removed. The Legislature sent a committee to South Bend to examine the premises and report upon the expediency of accepting the offer.

Twenty one thousand dollars, in gold coin, is the modest sum claimed by Jabish Clement, a lawyer of no extraordinary repute, for services rendered in the matter of the extension of Montgomery street, San Francisco.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., Feb. 6, 1871.

RAILROADS.

I was mistaken in my letter of the 17th ult. as to the whereabouts of Mr. Williams' bills granting lands to the Oregon railroad companies; but their true positions make their chances of becoming laws still worse. The one from Humboldt to Rogue river really is in the Speaker's desk, and to take it out of the regular order requires a two-thirds vote. The regular order of business will never reach it, and a two-thirds vote is not likely to reach it this Congress. Mr. Williams' amendment compels the grant to connect with the Oregon and California road in Rogue river valley. Mr. Smith, of Oregon, and Mr. Fitch, of Nevada, last session opposed this amendment. Now they are in favor of it, but it is too late. They made the canvass on it in Oregon last spring, and beat Williams for the Senate and Wilson for Representative, and now many disinterested Republicans who favor granting lands to aid in the construction of railroads will oppose any action on this bill. Mr. Fitch is now very anxious to pass it with Mr. Williams' amendment, to defeat the Jacksonville company, and he will in a few days move to suspend the rules and to take it up. Indifferent Republicans, with the Democrats, will, in all human probability, defeat the motion, notwithstanding there are more than two-thirds of the House who favor granting lands to aid in the construction of railroads. The best friends of railroads among the House members say Smith's and Fitch's change in favor of Williams' amendment is a death-bed repentance, and that it is too late to save the bill from oblivion. If it had been pressed last spring, before the June election, by the whole of the members from Oregon and Nevada, with the influence of our Senators, it could have been passed on either route. I have talked with the friends and the foes of railroad land grants, and the general impression is that the Oregon bills will fail. The Democrats, as a general rule, oppose all land grants to aid in the construction of any rail road. I have urged Republicans for this reason and for the good of Oregon to vote for William's bill, and in substance they all reply: "I am in favor of granting lands to aid in the construction of railroads for Oregon, but your delegation are divided on the route, and from the best information I have Oregon is Democratic, and Democrats don't want railroad grants. The question was made in the late election in Oregon, and the people decided, by the election of Democrats, that they did not choose a land grant. My constituents have no direct interest in those land grants, and I am not disposed to force land grants or railroads on those who don't want them. If you want land grants you must go home and beat the Democrats, who generally oppose them."

These are the real sentiments among all the leading Republicans with whom I have conversed since my arrival in December last. Mr. Fitch, Mr. Smith, Mr. Williams and Mr. Corbett combined can't get a two-thirds vote on this bill, and without some extraordinary combination it stands no chance. I repeat, it "sleeps the last sleep," and "Gabriel's Trumpet" can't wake it to life again.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The bill granting lands to this Company will probably pass this session of Congress.

Mr. Maynard this evening moved to take it from the Speaker's desk and refer it to the Pacific Railroad Committee, with leave to report it back to the House at any time after the 15th of February. The yeas and nays were ordered and the motion was agreed to. Yeas, 129; nays, 61—more than two-thirds voting in the affirmative.

THE COLUMBIA AND SALT LAKE RAILROAD BILL.

This bill is still in the Senate, and there is no use in pressing it this session as it could not be reached in the House.

Senator Corbett has introduced a joint resolution, withholding from sale and settlement, without prejudice to any title now existing, all that portion of Southeastern Oregon east of Camp Warner, and south of Camp Harney, embraced within the 117th to 120th parallels of longitude and the 42d and 44th degree of latitude, for the space of eighteen months. The object in view is to select suitable lands within said described boundaries for an Indian reservation for the roving and unsettled bands of Indians in Oregon east of the Cascade mountains. Superintendent Meacham will receive instructions to proceed immediately with negotiations for the Umatilla reserve, and in connection therewith, the location of a new reservation as above indicated. The probabilities are that some material changes will be made in Indian affairs in Oregon. Superintendent Meacham is here working with the support of Senators and Congressmen for an appropriation for the surveys of Grand Ronde, Warm Springs, Siletz and Umatilla Reservations.

STEAMSHIP SUBSIDIES.

In the Senate, the bill giving subsidies came up on Friday last, and Mr. Davis moved to postpone it and to call up the House bill giving pensions to and widows of deceased soldiers. This motion prevailed by a vote of 28 yeas to 24 nays. This is a test vote, and this ends the steamship subsidies for this session of Congress.

After a long discussion and several amendments, the House bill granting pensions to all the soldiers of 1812, passed. It gives a pension to all soldiers of 1812, whether they are invalids or not, and it extends to the widows of deceased soldiers of the revolution and of the war of 1812. Mr. Sawyer moved to grant pensions to soldiers of the war of 1812 whose services were specially recognized by Congress, although their consecutive service may have been less than three months. This motion was carried.

The bill now goes to the House for its concurrence in these amendments. There is no doubt of its passage before the 4th of March.

PERSONAL.

The Brooklyn Union of January 26th says "Mrs. Blanche Butler Ames and Mrs. Corbett of Oregon, are the most beautiful Senatorial ladies in Washington. The first a blonde, the second a brunette, neither having outlived their first youth."

Mrs. Williams, a few days ago, fell on the steps at Mr. Holladay's house and broke her ankle. She is now walking about the room on crutches.

The old land fossil, John Wilson, has been turned out of office, and Hon. Willis Drummond has been appointed Commissioner of the General Land Office.

During the past week Eastern papers have been full of rumors about changes being made in the President's Cabinet. They have been flatly denied in official circles. However, where there is so much smoke, there must be a few old smouldering, burning coals.

B. F. D.

An agricultural laborer in England tried a muscular method of evangelizing his family. Being remonstrated with by the pastor for not "bringing up" his boys as he should, he replied: "I donno 'ow 'tis, sir; I order 'em down to pray, night and mornin', and when they won't go down I knock 'em down—and yet they ain't good!"

OREGON.

A man named Charles Hand committed suicide a few days ago on Link river, in Southern Oregon.

At Salem they are figuring on the cost of a library. They propose $2,000 for books, $200 per annum for newspapers and periodicals; $200 each year for new books; $150 for room rent, and $300 for librarian.

From the Statesman: We learn that Mr. Cross is at Chicago packing and curing meat to fill a Government contract at San Francisco. Considerable was killed and packed here to apply on the same, but as pork took a rise here last fall, Mr. Cross thought he would try the experiment at Chicago. He talked of salting the meat down in bulk there, in cars, and let cure on the way to work its passage.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says: A vigilance committee has been formed in Douglas county. The circumstances which led to its formation are about these: Certain parties pretending to have bought titles to stray cattle in the neighborhood, would go out and shoot down cattle belonging to other persons on the range, and when brought to answer for their acts, would set up that they had made a mistake in the animal killed. Being irresponsible, of course, the punishment of their deeds as crimes was all they feared. It seems that some of them had been brought to trial and acquitted, and cattle owners thereupon became indignant and organized the vigilance committee. We see no reason or just [illegible] for such a movement in Douglas county [illegible] like the one alluded to, would [illegible] an intelligent jury, and certainly the law in such a case is the surest and most certain mode of redress.

Certain Ugly Facts.

That the lands of settlers in various parts of the State, and especially in Union county, are being seized by speculators under the piratical swamp land act passed at the recent session of the Legislature, is just now a somewhat ugly fact. But the "State organ," as in duty bound, attempts to exculpate the Legislature, by saying that the acts of robbery complained of are chargeable wholly to the "speculators," and that the Legislature should be held to no accountability therefor.

The excuse is ridiculous for its flimsiness. It is the act of the Legislature that enables these land sharks to disturb settlers. Had that act not been passed the settlers would be secure. The act was passed at the instance of this same class of speculators, who contemplated these robberies under it, and had it enacted for that and other equally disreputable purposes. All men of common sense will at once lay the blame where it primarily belongs. There are many Democrats who feel the effects of it, who cannot be blinded by partisanship so as to prevent them from seeing just where the great original fault lies.

Here it is in a nut shell: The Democratic Legislature at its recent session enacted, at the instance of the piratical land ring, a law which enables the members of that ring or their agents, and all others who are unprincipled enough to do so, to attack the rights of settlers on the public lands. Now who shall be held accountable? Manifestly the Legislature. That body was entrusted with a care [illegible] interests of the State. The speculators [illegible] jobbers had no such trust. It was [illegible] of the Legislature to protect the [illegible] and the revenues of the State against [illegible] and all other predacious rings. Instead [illegible] its duty to the people and the State, [illegible] Legislature passed an act to promote the [illegible] of the land pirates, and under this [illegible] settlers are being despoiled of their homes. [illegible] who is to blame?

[illegible] Democratic party cannot escape the [illegible] it has brought on itself by this and [illegible] outrages. At the instigation of specu[illegible] and robbers it has attacked the rights [illegible]; prompted by jobbers it has at[illegible] the school fund, heretofore inviolate; [illegible] those who desired to secure for [illegible] special privileges and advantages [illegible] legislation, it enacted a series of [illegible] which, if carried out, will result in [illegible] the swamp and school lands of [illegible] to enrich a few favored individuals. [illegible] shall be pinned to its record on [illegible]. The indictment stands against [illegible] it who can.

[illegible] Spotless Legislature—Fay Explains how Kelly's Election was Brought About.

Mr. Fay continues in the Jacksonville Times [illegible] of the corruption in his party in [illegible] Senatorial election. He shows [illegible] with Messrs. Lockhart, Rader, [illegible] Holsclaw and Bennett, signed a pledge [illegible] effect that they would not go [illegible] Democratic Senatorial caucus until [illegible] railroad interests of Southern Oregon [illegible]. Of this pledge Mr. Fay says:

> [illegible] the pledge was simply to obtain [illegible] of the influence of the Senator to be [illegible] favor of the railroad interests of the [illegible] counties; that he might be solemnly [illegible] in writing to regard our rights more than [illegible] representatives at the National Capitol had [illegible]; and is conclusive proof, that at [illegible] although every individual present was [illegible] with the contents of Col. Kelly's let[illegible] believed its pledges comprehen[illegible] Mr. Wells did not sign the paper, [illegible] would stay out of the caucus. Of [illegible] cannot pretend to say what was the reason he refused to sign, and why he declared that he [illegible] be bound in writing to anything;" [illegible] the following fact may throw some light on [illegible] few days before this, Mr. Wells came [illegible] my rooms and stated that "Jack Burnett was [illegible] $2,000 to remain out of the caucus."
> T[illegible] say that I was astounded does not adequately express my emotion at this piece of information. I asked him how much he wanted. He replied that he "ought to have as much as [illegible]." Without giving him any definite answer, [illegible] not to place him on his guard, I left him, determined to ferret this piece of contemplated [illegible] to the bottom. Descending the stairs [illegible], the first person I saw was Mr. Burnett. I said to him, "Jack, I had no idea in the [illegible] that you wanted 'chicken pie.'" Said he, "[illegible] there is chicken pie lying around loose, I [illegible] share." I then left Mr. Burnett, fully [illegible] that both had been tampered with, and [illegible] with some faint spirit of remorse they in[illegible] to give me the refusal of their sale. This [illegible] was the cause of there being a written [illegible] drawn up. I intended, if possible, to have [illegible] written proof of their perfidy. My impres[illegible] that this was on the Friday preceding the [illegible] election, and I had no conversation [illegible] Wells since, up to the time of the meet[illegible] rooms; and the inference I draw was, [illegible] refusal to sign a written pledge, while [illegible] he would not go into caucus, was based [illegible] a desire to see the "chicken pie" he hanker[illegible] after, before putting his name to a pledge in [illegible].

In the following paragraph Mr. Fay repels [illegible] charge that he was in league with the [illegible]:

> [illegible] letter to the Oregon Herald, under date [illegible] 1870, intended as a reply to the charges [illegible] and corruption preferred by me against [illegible] colleague Wells, in a public speech [illegible] the Court House, Jacksonville, Nov. [illegible] Mr. Burnett, while nowhere denying the [illegible] made against him, seeks to excuse his [illegible] the ground of fealty to his party. I [illegible] this occasion to distinctly deny the charges he brings against myself, of collusion [illegible] Republican party, and of pledging them [illegible] from Jackson or elsewhere; and de[illegible] these charges grossly, willfully and maliciously false, and the author of them a willful and malicious slanderer and liar.

The downright manner in which this is stated will hardly be misunderstood by Burnett. Mr. Fay then proceeds to put into more precise language than he had used heretofore his charge against certain members.

> My charge was that Wells and Burnett received a valuable consideration to go into the Senatorial caucus. This charge was made three months ago. Both Mr. Wells and Mr. Burnett have had ample opportunity to ponder upon it, and both have written letters to the public prints in reference to my speech; but neither Mr. Wells any more than Mr. Burnett has denied this charge. Having had abundant opportunity to deny, and having failed to do so, the charge must be taken as confessed. So much for the explanation given by these men for the violation of their plighted faith.
> Now, I appeal to you fellow citizens, to read again the letters of Messrs. Burnett, Waldron and Wells, in the light of the revelations I have made herein, and then ask yourselves: If these men dreaded Republican contamination so much that they jeopardized the interests of their county, and dishonored their own pledges, why did they frequent Republican caucuses? If they tell the truth like men, why do they contradict each other, and why are both contradicted by others? If they are innocent of the charges I have brought why have they not denied them? If they were honest, why did they not come back as poor as they went, as every other honest representative from Jackson has. These are questions, I opine, they will find it very difficult to answer.

It is on this record of corruption, proved by Democratic authority, that Col. Kelly goes into the Senate! These were the agencies through which he obtained his election. The Senate of the United States owes it to its own character and integrity to refuse to receive as a member a man elected in a manner at once so shameless and corrupt. The facts should be laid before that body when Kelly appears on the 4th of March with his certificate of election, a certificate procured through such corrupt and dishonorable practices, to claim one of Oregon seats in that body. Neither of those seats has ever been thus dishonored, and never should be.

On the 9th of August next, occurs the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Sir Walter Scott. It is intended on this occasion to have an extraordinary celebration in Edinburgh, the city of his birth. As the Association for the Advancement of Science holds a meeting in "Auld Reekie" at the same period, and will draw together a great concourse of people, it is supposed that the Scott Centenary will assume proportions not surpassed by those of any similar occasion ever known. A committee including many person of distinction has been formed, and by its instructions, the honorary Secretary of the Committee, Mr. T. Usher, has addressed a general letter to the American people, inviting such of them as can make it convenient to visit Scotland at the time named to share in the festivities.

Inasmuch as Col. Kelly's way into the Senate was bought with money, (see extracts from Mr. Fay's letters elsewhere published,) it becomes interesting to enquire who furnished the cash. If the people of Oregon could learn that fact they would then know who it is that Senator Kelly is pledged to serve during his Senatorial term. But if this should not now be divulged, it will, of course, come out through Kelly's advocacy of somebody's schemes and jobs. The man who furnished the money will of course command Kelly's services.

The "organ" says it will not "strike back" at the papers of its party which are dealing it so many blows. "Our fight," it says, "is with our enemies, and not with our friends." Singular friends to the "organ," those Democratic papers which are pitching into it in so lively a manner!

The Sacramento Union enumerates thirteen Democratic papers in California which are against railroad subsidies, and eight which are in favor of them. Among the latter is the "State organ," the Sacramento Reporter.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Queen Victoria's lessons of economy have not been lost upon her daughters. The wife of the Crown Prince of Prussia makes her own dresses and bonnets—occasionally.

Epidemic cholera of the most virulent type has broken out in India among the pilgrims who have arrived at Pund[illegible] to [illegible]ship at the shrine of the god Vithoba, and is spreading throughout the country at an alarming rate.

Four German bankers have been tried for treason to their country in subscribing to the French loan, and have been sentenced to prison for two years, nine, six, and three months, respectively. One of them had subscribed £17,000.

Bismarck ordered the editor of a Berlin comic paper to be imprisoned in a fortress for six weeks, for saying that if you wrap up a sausage in Bismarck's paper, the Kreuz Zeitung, and then throw it to a dog, you may be sure that the dog will not eat the sausage.

It is stated that at the bombardment of Fort Avron by the Saxons, the panic among the garrison was so great that many officers were killed on the run in attempting to escape. This is why General Trochu charged the garrison of the fort with cowardice in a subsequent proclamation.

The Bavarian corps, under General Von der Tann, originally 35,000 strong, has lost 30,000 men, it is said. They have behaved with much courage in battle, although they are credited with innumerable acts of savage cruelty to French peasants whom they suspected of being Francs-Tireurs.

A relic of the first French Revolution died in Paris lately at the age of ninety-five. The old man, whose name was Lambert, knew well all the principal actors in that bloody drama, as, although a mere boy when the Revolution took place, he served for three years as secretary to the public prosecutor and recorder to the Revolutionary Tribunal.

The young Prince Imperial is said to be a fine lad, physically and morally. The greatest possible affection prevails between him and his mother. He resembles his mother most in the eyes, which are very handsome and intelligent. He has the Napoleonic head and nose. At Chiselhurst he conducts his studies sedulously, speaks English fluently, and is very courteous to every body.

Baron Von Beust, in a speech to the Austro-Hungarian delegation at Pesth, advocated the increase of the Austrian armaments, both military and naval. He said that the danger of warlike complications involving Austria was not a phantom peril, and that, while Austria had no policy of revenge for the past, foreign Powers must understand that she is ready for defence. The Premier's remarks were clearly directed against Prussia.

The Bourbon Prince.

THE NEW CANDIDATE FOR THE THRONE OF FRANCE.

Henri Charles Ferdinand Marie Dieudonne, Duke of Bordeaux and Count of Chambord, is the present chief of the principal branch of the Bourbon family. He is now 51 years of age, and has for some years past resided at Frohsdorf, a beautiful village not far from Vienna. Though married since November, 1846, to the eldest daughter of the Duke of Modena, the Count of Chambord has no children, a matter of importance if fortune should call this grandson of Charles X. to the throne of France. Born shortly after his father, the Duke of Berry, had been assassinated, the infant Prince's first months of life were signalized all over France by enthusiastic demonstrations of joy. Lamartine wrote some of his finest verses on the advent of the royal child, and Chateaubriand, on returning from the Holy Land, brought for the Prince's baptism water from the river Jordan. The revolution of 1830, however, drove him and all the Bourbons into exile, and the would-be Henri V. traveled for several years through various countries to complete his education. It was only in 1843, when temporarily residing at a hotel in Belgrave Square, London, that he for the first time made known to the world his pretensions to the crown of France, and there men like Berryer, Chateaubriand and other prominent legitimists had frequent political conferences with him. He was in Venice when the revolution of 1848 broke out. Unwilling to place himself prominently before Republican France, he nevertheless at that time wrote to a friend that he would await the day when France, wiser by experience, would turn to him, and pronounce his name as a pledge of security and prosperity. Since the accession of Napoleon III. to the throne of France the Count of Chambord has issued several manifestoes. Speaking of the temporal power of the Pope as late as 1862, he announced himself ready "to purchase with his blood the triumph of the cause, which is that of France, of the Church, and of God." Ever since the last Italian war, he has resided quietly in Austria, from whence he may now be called to ascend the throne of his country after an absence of forty years.

The following is a specimen brick (if we may be allowed the expression) from a very able and exhaustive article on the "Finite and Infinite," in a Chicago quarterly: "What is present is therefore, Otherness in general, or a universal Being-for-Other, which, because it is a single Being-for-Other, it is more properly Being-for-One. That is, the Singleness of the determination sublates the Otherness."

La France mentions the death in Paris, at the age of ninety-five, of a man who played a part in the Reign of Terror. His name was Lambert, and he had been secretary to the public prosecutor, Fouquier-Tinville, and recorder to the revolutionary tribunal.

PUGET SOUND CORRESPONDENCE

OLYMPIA, W. T., Feb. 14, 1871

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

As an old Web-foot, looking round for terminus, and anything else that might be lying about loose in the country of the Clam-eaters, it occurs to me that some of my observations may be worthy of note.

By way of introduction, and as a timely warning to all my Web-foot relations, I must tell a good one on Mr. ——, of ——, some where in the great Wallamet. Being at Harmon's Hotel, in Olympia, at the time of the late two weeks rain storm, reports were coming in from various points, of high water and floating houses, when our Oregonian chanced to look out into the street and see a full moon tide rolling therein. Not being familiar with the tricks of Luna and the wave, he immediately called for and settled his bill, remarking as he did so, that if it rained much longer the chances were good for a clean sweep of "that are town," and that "he didn't want any of it in his."

Well, Olympia is flourishing under the prospects of the first connection with the N. P. R. R., and property holders are firm in their prices. About four thousand acres of land in and about the city, have been subscribed to the local company to aid in the construction of a branch road out to the main line, some ten miles south of town. This, it is thought is sufficient inducement to men of means to undertake and complete the building of the road. However, the good people of Olympia feel that much depends on themselves, for they know that large corporations are very uncertain. And who should know better than they. Have they not had experience?

Perhaps that experience is not generally known, so I will relate it. Some two months since dispatches flew over the wires ordering refreshments, and announcing the coming of the Vice President of the N. P. R. R., with a large party of Directors and stockholders. Immediately after their arrival they departed by steamer down the Sound to take notes, and Olympia was very quiet. Soon, however, they returned to the head of navigation. And now a committee is provided to call upon the Vice President and learn his intentions relative to the making of the great railroad city at Olympia. The committee is received and formally introduced. After a few remarks of a general nature, it was observed that two of the railroad party withdrew, but no special comment was made, or deemed necessary thereon. The day was mostly spent in futile efforts on the part of the committee to ascertain the views of the railroad king on matters in general, and terminus in particular. Judge, then, of the surprise of ye Olympian, when, on the morrow they awoke to learn that the last of the railroad party had gone, and taken with him the Receiver's certificate to about twenty thousand acres of land situated on Whidby's Island. Then was there a rush to the land office, but too late. Not a foot was to be had. Five, ten, fifteen and twenty dollars an acre was offered, but nobody had any Whidby Island land, or, if so fortunate, none to sell.

So this people begin to feel that if a railroad comes, they must build it, and build it they will (so they say.) There seems to be about ten points on the Sound that claim attention, and many now are "scattering," that is, buying a little at each point, thinking thus to be on the safe, or sunny side of fortune. All are anticipating a stirring time for the next two years, and from the general outlook, they will not be disappointed.

There will be fortunes lost and won within the next two or three years on Puget Sound to a greater extent than ever was known on this coast outside of a mining camp. The question is, who will win?

After a time I will give you the arguments used in favor of each particular point.

Miss Motley's Marriage.

The London Post of January 19th has the following in regard to the marriage of Miss Motley, daughter of the late U. S. Minister at London:

> Yesterday was solemnized at Frampton, in Dorsetshire, the marriage between Mr. Algernon Sheridan, second son of Mr. Richard Brinsley Sheridan, and Miss Mary Lathrop Motley, second daughter of the distinguished author and historian, late Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States of America. The celebration of the event was appointed to take place in the village church, which was decorated for the occasion with evergreens and flowers, while arches similarly ornamented were erected from distance to distance along the road by which the bridal party were to pass from the park of Frampton to the sacred building. No "setting down at the doors" being possible to carriages, the successive groups passed through the churchyard in gay attire on foot, protected from the damp soil by a carpet.

The union just formed brings the young lady a host of connections among some of the first families of Great Britain, and certainly on the other side no prouder descent can be boasted than she herself lays claim to, being the daughter of one of the most distinguished men, in his double capacity of author and diplomatist, who ever came from America to our shores. The newly wedded pair left Frampton Court in the afternoon to spend the honeymoon at Poltimore Park, one of the country seats of the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Lord Poltimore. Mr. Motley and his family will shortly proceed to The Hague, by invitation, we believe, from the Queen of the Netherlands, who has placed a residence at their disposal for the winter.

The Break Down of the Cables.

A letter from England to the Boston Advertiser gives the following interesting particulars in relation to the Atlantic cables:

> When the cables were being deposited in their bed, the projectors were warned of the dangers arising from icebergs and the rocky nature of the bottom near Newfoundland, and they were urged to use a thick length of shore end cable at that part of the track. This was not done, and the result is that while the deep sea portions of the cables have all along, so far as the directors let the public know, been in good condition, the lengths close off Newfoundland have been cracking and breaking with chronometrical regularity. To day we are told it is quite possible that neither of the two Anglo-American cables will be repaired before April next. Through the rise in the tariff, the gross receipts of telegraphing to and from America are, it appears, absolutely higher than before the accidents, and the earnings of the one cable are shared among the owners of all three.

The Prussians now have full control of thirty-two of the eighty-six French Departments, comprising 15,000 communers. They regularly collect the taxes—and something over.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Dispatch from Kalama.

KALAMA, Feb. 23.—A man named Conway was cut in the neck this evening by a Chinaman. It seems that Conway went to a China wash house for his clothes, and his ticket being defaced in some way, the Chinamen refused to give his shirts, whereupon Conway laid his hand on some shirts, when one of the Chinamen drew a knife and inflicted a cut in Conway's neck. In a few minutes the report of Conway being cut was circulated, when a crowd gathered around the house and the Chinaman fled. They have not caught him yet. Conway is but slightly injured.

REV. P. S. KNIGHT, Salem.......... March 7.

THE FIFTH LECTURE OF THE COURSE WILL be delivered by

COL. S. S. PARDEE,

Of Olympia,

On Tuesday Even'g, Feb. 28, 1871,

At 7½ o'clock.

Subject—"Picked up Fish;" an old-fashioned homely dish, possessing Political importance and a National History. What good does, and what broils may, come of it.

Colonel Pardee is well known as a popular Lecturer, and those who heard him last winter will testify that he deserves the high reputation he has won.

He has chosen a subject decidedly piscatorial, and were it not for its avowed dryness, we should incline to the belief that he intends giving his hearers an essay on "Desiccated Cod." We are certain, however, that it will be a savory dish—well seasoned, pungent, racy and, although it may possess an English flavor, yet it will be served up in true American style.

THE VIEUXTEMPS BROTHERS

Have kindly volunteered to furnish music on the evening of each lecture.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 24, 1871.

A PORTLANDER AT THE EAST.—We received a day or two since a letter from Mr. H. H. Tuttle, of this city, who went East a few weeks since. He writes from St. Louis, February 8th. We take liberty of presenting here some extracts from his letter:

"To-day finds me in the great city of the West. The past two days have been busy days to me. I have been before the Commercial Exchange presenting in my feeble way the interests of Oregon. I have been introduced to Senators, merchants, bankers and editors without number. I have met the managers of five different papers, and answered questions innumerable. Inclosed I send you the notices I have received from the three leading dailies. Merchants here tell me I have done more to represent the interests of Oregon than any other man has ever done. I have distributed about two hundred circulars from real estate agents, and scarce one went into the hands of any but business men. It is a mistaken idea that the people here are jealous of us. They are anxious to learn of our country. What I have done here I can do in every city of the Union. I should like to visit Chicago, Cincinnati, Boston and New York, and present your interests, but as my business does not call me there I shall not do it on my own account. If your people feel inclined to make up my expenses in the trip, after reading what I have done here, I will make my greatest effort for your State. I need some fine specimens of barley which I have not got; more fine wheat, oats and rye, which you can send in packages. I want some more apples which you can send by express. Address me at Vandalia, Illinois."

The extracts alluded to in the above letter, are from the Times, the Democrat and the Republican each of them a daily newspaper of wide circulation and commanding influence. We learn from them that Mr. Tuttle's samples of Oregon products were looked upon as rather in the way of astonishers. The Democrat, in relation to these exhibitions, said:

Mr. H. H. Tuttle, of Portland, Oregon, was on 'change yesterday. He has brought with him, and exhibited to our merchants, a very interesting collection of grains, seeds, fruits and vegetables of Oregon. We saw a sample of white winter wheat, extremely plump and white, which yielded without irrigation fifty-one bushels per acre. A sample of Australian ninety-day wheat which he exhibited was also remarkable for the size of the berry and its beauty of color. A fine sample of winter oats, sown in October, and Surprise oats, sown in the spring, were also shown. Among the fine samples of winter wheat was a kind called "Velvet Chaff," which was much admired. The potatoes exhibited were of the "Peachblow" variety and were unusually large and fine. The apples and pears were also marvels in their way and were concurrent evidence of the wonderful productiveness of Oregon soil and unsurpassed salubrity of the Oregon climate."

This is only a part of the Democrat's article, but is sufficient to show the temper and tenor of the whole and of the articles published by the other two papers. They all speak in terms of admiration and compliment of the articles exhibited by Mr. Tuttle and two of them allude in similar terms to samples of woolen fabrics manufactured in Oregon and exhibited in St. Louis by a former visitor from this State. Mr. Tuttle has evidently been doing a good work for Oregon, and it is a pity that his efforts cannot be seconded by the people here, in the way he suggests.

BOYS IN THE POLICE COURT.—A number of boys—some of them quite small—were up yesterday morning for petit larceny. The Judge feels that he cannot punish these juveniles like older offenders and so whenever they are taken up, they get off with a lecture, for which they care no more than the whistling of the wind. As time passes their numbers increase, and they grow daily older not only in days but in petty crime. In a little while some of them will become accomplished enough in this line to be treated as enemies to society and will get into the county jail and the penitentiary. Meantime, as the crop of criminals grows apace and ripens, nothing is being done to provide a remedy and preventive, except to talk or write about the necessity of doing something. The Council deems it expedient to widen streets, open streets, improve streets, adorn the streets, etc., but it seems to have no time to think of or care for the crime that is every day breeding in the streets. Do not our Council men consider that they have some responsibility in regard to society as well as streets and taxes and such like things? When will the missionary element in our churches turn their attention to something practical toward saving our boys, as well as to giving festivals and money grabbing entertainments?

TRACK BLOCKADED.—Yesterday forenoon as the train of cars came down from Albany a huge rock was discovered directly on the track just above the upper end of the trestle bridge at Oregon City. The jolly and handsome ex Mayor of Salem, who gave us this information, says that the train did not attempt to spurn the obstruction out of the way as it would have done had it been a cow or a swash. On the contrary, the darling engine whistled "down brakes," and stopping still at a respectful distance, a party of fellows were sent ahead to treat—the rock as it deserved. As it wouldn't get off the track itself, an attempt was made to put it off but prying and levering and swearing wasn't worth a cent in that direction, so the sappers and miners were brought up. They sapped and mined awhile under it, and finally let it down, so that the track could be lifted over and bent around it to let the train pass. We asked the ex Mayor how much the rock weighed. "Well," said he, "we all agreed that we would take it at twenty five tons rather than stop to weigh it." And the ex Mayor with a modest and becoming blush mantling upon his finely chiseled face, passed on.

EAST PORTLAND.—We are informed that the people in "the railroad city of the Northwest" are somewhat mixed on the subject of improving streets.

The brass band organized some months since under the leadership of Tom Parrott, is to have a new uniform, in the purchase of which the boys are to be assisted by the public-spirited.

The East Portland Building Association (Odd Fellows) have elected the following directors: John A. English, C. H. Rafferty, J. A. Newell, A. H. Johnson and W. W. Thayer. Subscription of stock is active, and members of the Association are now hopeful that early in March they will be able to begin the construction of their hall building.

UBIQUITOUS JOHN DOE.—This noted individual, who has appeared as plaintiff or defendant in more suits in various parts of the world than ever did the Erie railroad managers, has at last left the main and gone for a "sailor boy." His name was entered yesterday as one of the crew of a vessel in port. We suppose now that Richard Roe will have to stand the arrests of our policemen and the abuse of our police court lawyers. Alas, Poor Richard!

GROWING, BEYOND A DOUBT.—There are philosophers who maintain that this earth is just like a cabbage-head or turnip—constantly growing bigger. As all men cannot, of course, see it in the same light, there are other philosophers who scout the proposition. We are satisfied, however, that the first named class are right. The earth has actually grown enough this winter to cover nearly all the cross walks in Portland.

SOMETHING NEW.—Within the last day or two we have observed several heavily loaded trucks and drays going down to that part of the O. S. N. Co.'s dock where the Oneonta lands. Shipments of merchandise up the Columbia river have been quite rare for several weeks, and it begins to look really like the opening of spring to see the truck loads of stuff marked for Eastern Oregon, going down to the Oneonta's wharf.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.—Rev. Dr. Lindsley, as heretofore announced, will lecture for "the good of the order," in Good Templars Hall, corner Alder and Front, this evening at half past seven o'clock. A general invitation is extended to all to attend. We regret that we are not advised as to the subject of the lecture.

STILL THERE.—The wreck of the old French brig is still near its old location below the steamship dock. The Falkinburg in hauling in from the stream yesterday, got her anchor foul in the wreck and had much difficulty in getting it cleared.

A CROWD.—The trial of the case of the State vs. Loryea commenced in the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon. There was, as usual in the trial of such cases, a large crowd of spectators in attendance.

TO SAIL.—The steamship Ajax will sail from this port for San Francisco at 4 o'clock tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon.

The Sheriff returned to the venires the names of L. C. Potter, H. J. McIntyre, C. D. Burch, J. H. Summons, A. E. Ingraham, C. H. Higgins, H. McDonald, E. Protzman, C. O. Clarke, L. Baum, G. B. Cook, O. Risley, T. Huntington and W. H. Brackett.

State of Oregon vs A. M. Loryea; the following jurors were empanneled: J. M. Fisk, B. A. Lillie, John Costello, John Hawkins, Clark Hay, Charles Holman, T. J. Dryer, L. C. Potter, H. J. McIntyre, A. E. Graham, H. McDonald and T. Huntington; cause on trial.

The court adjourned till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Col. B. S. Pardee of Olympia, will deliver the next lecture before the Y. M. C. Association, next Tuesday evening.

The festival and exhibition of the A. M. E. Zion Church folks last evening was a considerable and creditable affair.

The Alert came down yesterday loaded to the guards with flour for the steamer Ajax.

The Wallamet river is again falling, having gone down in the last twenty-four hours, about one foot.

The bark Falkinburg hauled in yesterday to the steamship dock, and will commence unloading to-day.

The Washington street wharf is being treated to a new floor—a long needed improvement.

The steamer Ajax is taking freight from the railroad depot at East Portland.

AMUSEMENTS.

ORO FINO THEATER.—The Nickerson Minstrels are still furnishing plenty of fun at this place of amusement. They give a change of programme each night, with new jokes, old jokes revamped, new songs and new dances. The double dancing is really first-rate, and the negro acts very laughable. The entertainment opens each night with a comedy or farce by the old comedy company. Last night Messrs. Bates and Vinson played Box and Cox in excessively funny style, and to-night they will present something equally amusing. The Minstrels will close with their chapters of joys and sorrows, "kitchen difficulties," etc., etc.

FESTIVAL.—The M. E. Church Festival at East Portland Wednesday evening was a quite successful affair, the guests having a pleasant time and the managers getting much cash.

CONCERT.—The inaugural concert by the Oregon Musical Institute will take place at Philharmonic Hall on Thursday evening, March 11th. It is expected that over one hundred performers will take part in the exercises. Further particulars hereafter.

De Joinville and Gambetta.

THE PRINCE RELATES HIS EXPERIENCE WITH THE ARMY OF THE LOIRE.

On the 17th of January, by a dispatch from a correspondent at Brussels, we were informed that Prince De Joinville, who had offered his services to General De Chanzy, had been arrested by order of Gambetta and sent to England. The London Times of the 26th contains the following letter from the Prince in reference to this affair:

SIR:—The circulation of the London Times is so large that I cannot allow, without correction, the account which you give to-day of my arrest at Le Mans, and of the circumstances which brought it about, to gain credence. The following are the facts: I was in France since the month of October. I had gone to offer again my services to the Republican Government, and to point out what I thought I could effectually do with their consent for the defense of my country. The answer was that I would only be in the way. Since then I thought only of doing anonymously my duty as a Frenchman and a soldier. It is true that I went to ask General d'Aurelle to receive me, under an assumed name, in the ranks of the Loire. It is true also that he did not consider himself empowered to do so, and that I was present at the disaster of Orleans only as a spectator. But when later I made the same request to Gen. Chanzy, it was entertained. Only, in accepting me among his soldiers, the loyal General thought fit to inform M. Gambetta of my presence in the army, and to ask for a confirmation of his decision. It is in answer to this request that I was arrested on January 13th by a Commissionarie de Police taken to the Prefecture at Le Mans, where I have been kept for five days, and at last put on board a ship at St. Malo for England. I need not add that, whatever my felings may have been on being torn away from a French army on the eve of a great battle, I have never uttered any of the words attributed to me about M. Gambetta, whom I have never seen,

Receive, sir, the assurance of my best consideration.

F. D'ORLEANS,
Prince de Joinville.

Twickenham, January 24th.

The last number of the Gentleman's Magazine contains a curious article entitled "Tyburniana." It is, as its title would indicate, reminiscences of curious scenes attending executions at Tyburn. An Irishman was sentenced to be hanged for robbery, and was just leaving the dock when the Sheriff called him back and asked him his age. "Is it my age you want? Faith and I think I am about as ould as I ever shall be," replied the doomed man. When the Sheriff came to conduct him to execution, and his hands had been properly tied, he refused to walk. "Do you think that I'll assist at my own destruction? Do you think I'll walk to my death? If you want me you'll have to carry me!"

OR
RHEUMATIC CURE.

HISTORY:

THIS REMEDY IS COMPOSED OF THE ACTIVE principle of the Unk Weed, Eng.—Thaspium, Cordatum, Origanis, Lat.—Indigenous to Oregon—Grows most abundantly and perfectly in Washington county.

PROPERTIES, &c.:

It contains an active volatile principle extracted by Ether, and a bitter Tonic principle.

Medical Properties and Uses:

It is the most Sure and Speedy Cure for Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and Rheumatic Pains of all kinds that has ever been introduced in the Materia Medica. The Unk Weed Remedy as prepared by us, in consequence of the existing bitter principle, possesses the necessary virtue of being a POWERFUL TONIC!

Promoting the Appetite and Invigorating the whole Digestive Apparatus, thus building and strengthening the system, while at the same time the volatile principle, being absorbed in the blood, acts specifically on the Rheumatic Poison, removing it from the circulation and system.

There are few remedies known to the Medical profession, which will remove the Rheumatic poison from the blood, but whose action is so powerful in depressing the system of the already enfeebled Rheumatic patient, that their use has to be abandoned before specific effects are obtainable. Hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence, heretofore incurable disease. Unlike these Medicines, already known, the

"Unk Weed Remedy"

Though producing as powerful and as active effects on the blood and system in removing the Rheumatic Poison, also possesses a strong Tonic and recuperating element, which admits of its continued use even in the most delicate and debilitated. Thus we have the combination for the first time of these two necessary elements in the one remedy, which accounts for its superior and never failing curative effects in

RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATIC GOUT
AND
RHEUMATIC PAINS
Of all kinds.

Put Up in 10 oz. Bottles at $1 50 per Bottle.

We have nothing new to note in the local money market, everything being in a satisfactory condition as for the last several weeks

The merchandise market presents some indications of an opening of spring trade though as yet transactions are numerous rather than heavy The renewal of navigation of the Upper Columbia, has stimulated orders in that direction and we have to note the shipment of small lots of goods to Canyon City La Grande and Umatilla. The full resumption of trade with Eastern Oregon and Washington is not yet however expected to take place for a month yet The Wallamet valley is sending forward about the usual orders, and business in general with wholesale dealers is good for the season

We present to-day a revised price list of staple dry goods, which have been laid down by our leading importers, at reduced figures Our merchants are now receiving their spring supply of general dry goods, the variety and completeness of which has never been equaled in this market. It has been the aim of the importers in this line to induce the trade of this valley to confine their purchases to the Portland market, as near as possible, and we have the satisfaction to know that they have by keeping superior stock and selling them down at low prices, succeeded in holding the bulk of the trade

Of agricultural goods we notice quite a shipment of plows up the Columbia river the new settlers drawing their supplies from this city Buckeye seed drills are also moving at fair prices, the implement having become popular among the farmers No changes in quotations this week

Hardware—we observe that some of our importers are [illegible] heavy stocks of iron and steel ex recent arrivals from England These stocks come in bond to this [illegible] shelf hardware there is nothing new to note [illegible] moderately fair trade, mostly upon small orders The stocks on hand are already very large, and are augmented by every arrival from San Francisco and [illegible] road All prices are as heretofore quoted but firm

Wheat is duller with a declining tendency Choice round lots might still be sold for $1 15, but buyers are not strongly disposed to pay that figure The offers range $1 10 to 1 15 as the extreme The interior holders ask nearly Portland prices for their wheat, and the consequence is that very little is changing hands, except to local millers Oats are scarce and higher

Provisions are still dull, in general. Dried apples however, are scarce this year, and quotations have advanced to 6a7c. Potatoes are scarce in the market and best qualities command 70a75c per bushel

In the retail family market, all kinds of vegetables are scarce and high

We clip the following commercial paragraphs from San Francisco papers received by the steamer, the dates [illegible] to the 18th

[illegible] regard to cereal crop prospects, we have only to re[illegible] what we have before said in these columns, that [illegible] are good Up to this date (for the season) we have [illegible] about eight and a half inches of rain and for [illegible] month, two inches or more than three [illegible] for a corresponding period last year and [illegible] the rainfall for the season is more than three [illegible] short of the same period in 1870, yet the rain has [illegible] genial, more opportune, the soil and seed [illegible] regard and thus utilized to a much greater degree [illegible] when poured out like a flood, to run to waste [illegible] much larger breadth of land has been planted [illegible] vation and everyway better cultivated than [illegible] Consequently, the general appearance of [illegible] fields throughout the broad expanse of our [illegible] domain is most cheering These remarks apply [illegible] fruit and vegetables of every sort, prospects [illegible] for abundant crops.

During the past week the receipts of fresh Butter have [illegible] in excess of the market requirements and prices for [illegible] grades are consequently lower Pickled Butter is in [illegible] supply with scarcely any inquiry Eastern [illegible] utter is not offering at retail

Eggs are less plentiful, and quotations are a trifle higher

Johnson's Oregon Hams have declined to 25c per lb Cross' Hams sell at 30c per lb and Chicago Hams at 28c per lb

Cauliflowers are scarce, and a good article brings a [illegible] figure Green Peas are quotable at 25c per lb [illegible] limited supply Spinach, 3c per lb, Mushrooms [illegible] per lb New Potatoes, 5a6c per lb Asparagus [illegible] per lb Lentil 10a12c per lb., Green Split Peas [illegible] per lb Sprouts, 10@12c per lb Horseradish, [illegible] lb Oyster Plant 12a15c per lb Garlic 8a10c [illegible] Jerusalem Artichokes, 5a6c per lb Artichokes, $1 per dozen [illegible] Fruit market has received further supplies of Ore[illegible] apples during the past week. By the box, Apples [illegible] from $1 75 to $3.

Pears are worth $2a4 50 per box.

[illegible] steamer Ajax brought 2 635 boxes Oregon [illegible] sold by the invoice at $1a1 90 per box [illegible] condition. Many were in bad condition [illegible] and Lemons from Los Angeles now come up [illegible] every steamer and are of choice quality [illegible] Apples are becoming very scarce and so of other [illegible] Prices are hardening

[illegible] Shanghai dates of January 13th report the tea market [illegible] been very quiet for the previous month [illegible] had been sold at 14¼ to 20 taels for ordinary [illegible] unsold stock being reduced to 11,330 chests, [illegible] common quality Settlements of green tea had [illegible] effected on a basis of 20 taels for interior, 31 to 37 [illegible] for good and 40 to 42½ taels for fine unsold stock [illegible] 000 hfchests chiefly common and low medium grades The exports of tea from Shanghai and river ports to the United States from June 1 1870 to January 12 1871, compare as follows with the corresponding period in the previous season

[illegible] ago the Colonial Government of British Columbia [illegible] offered a royalty of $1,500 for the first 250 tons [illegible] exported thence to a foreign port Subsequently [illegible] of the kind was discovered on Queen Char[illegible] and and a company was organized for work [illegible] same called the Queen Charlotte Island Coal [illegible] Company After getting out about 3 000 tons, [illegible] taken as Lulu was chartered in San Francisco to [illegible] to the mine and return with a cargo She ar[illegible] here on Sunday with 450 tons the same being not only the first cargo exported from the mines but the first hard coal discovered on the Pacific coast. A sample of it [illegible] on exhibition at the Mechanic's Exchange yesterday [illegible] noon It is said to resemble the Lackawana description The discovery is an important one to the manufacturing interests of California Hitherto all our hard or anthracite coal has been imported from domestic Atlantic [illegible] the freight formerly costing from $15 to $18 per ton though within a year or two it has been brought for [illegible] The deposit at Queen Charlotte Island is said to be extensive and the cost of bringing the coal to this port is [illegible] Pickett & Harrison have been appointed agents [illegible] San Francisco

[illegible] have Callao dates to January 12th Freights were [illegible] dull except for Hamburg and Rotterdam for which [illegible] was offered five ships having been taken at that [illegible] Antwerp 55s and Valencia, $15 Oregon pine was quoted at $47 The bark Pearl arrived with lumber on the 28th December, 76 days from San Francisco Over 30 vessels had arrived during the fortnight and 20 had cleared chiefly for the Guano Islands

Valparaiso dates of January 2d quote a slight improvement in wheat closing firm at $3 45@3 50 ⅌ 100 lbs flour $10 15@8 25 for Southern and $8 50@8 75 for Santiago brands The barley crop was reported to be of good quality and the yield abundant, causing the price to decline to $2 25 ⅌ 105 lbs

Our Manila dates by the China steamer are to January 3d. Large arrivals of flour from Hongkong had caused prices to decline to $6 75@7 25 per bbl in sks Sales of coffee had been made at $11 and of superior sugar at $4 75 per picul Indigo was quoted at $49 a $50 per quintal and cordage at $10 per picul Exports of sugar for 1867 amounted to 1 134 800 piculs, against 1 152 500 piculs in 1869 and 1 149 000 piculs in 1868 Of hemp 436 000 bales was shipped in 1870 against 424 000 bales in 1869 and 460 000 bales in 1868

The Government had promulgated a new tariff to take effect July 1 1871 It is quite an improvement on the old, being more simplified and more specific By the new law the duty on cotton staples is raised about 100 per cent though there is no change in colored cottons Flour will be admitted at $1 08 per 100 kilogrammes, and coal will come in free The export duties will be as annexed per 100 kilogrammes hemp 20c rice 5c sugar 17c coffee, 32c To avoid fractions exporters will charge 13 per cent. on hemp, 3½ per cent on rice 11 per cent. on sugar and 19 per cent on coffee There were no vessels up for San Francisco The exports to this port in 1870 were considerably lighter than for the previous year A private telegram has just been received in this city 13 days from Manila announcing an advance of 50c per picul in the price of sugar

We have nothing new to note in the local money market, everything being in a satisfactory condition as for the last several weeks

The merchandise market presents some indications of an opening of spring trade though as yet, transactions are numerous rather than heavy The renewal of navigation of the Upper Columbia, has stimulated orders in that direction and we have to note the shipment of small lots of goods to Canyon City, La Grande and Umatilla. The full resumption of trade with Eastern Oregon and Washington is not yet, however expected to take place for a month yet. The Wallamet valley is sending forward about the usual orders and business in general with wholesale dealers is good for the season

We present to-day a revised price list of staple dry goods, which have been laid down by our leading importers, at reduced figures. Our merchants are now receiving their spring supply of general dry goods, the variety and completeness of which has never been equaled in this market. It has been the aim of the importers in this line, to induce the trade of this valley to confine their purchases to the Portland market, as near as possible, and we have the satisfaction to know that they have by keeping superior stock, and setting them down at low prices, succeeded in holding the bulk of the trade

Of agricultural goods, we notice quite a shipment of plows up the Columbia river, the new settlers drawing their supplies from this city Buckeye seed drills are moving at fair prices, the implement having become [illegible] among the farmers No changes in quotations [illegible]

[illegible] ware—we observe that some of our importers are [illegible] stocks of iron and steel ex recent arrivals from England These stocks come in bond to this [illegible] shelf hardware there is nothing new to note [illegible] fair trade mostly upon small or [illegible] stocks on hand are already very large and are [illegible] by every arrival from San Francisco and [illegible] prices are as heretofore quoted, but firm.

Wheat [illegible] with a declining tendency Choice [illegible] might still be sold for $1 15, but buyers are [illegible] disposed to pay that figure The offers [illegible] $1 10 to 1 15 as the extreme The interior holders ask nearly Portland prices for their wheat, and the consequence is that very little is changing hands except [illegible] Oats are scarce and higher

[illegible] are still dull, in general. Dried apples [illegible] scarce this year, and quotations have ad[illegible] Potatoes are scarce in the market, and [illegible] command 70a75c per bushel

[illegible] retail family market, all kinds of vegetables are [illegible] and high.

We clip the following commercial paragraphs from [illegible] papers received by the steamer, the dates [illegible] the 18th

[illegible] cereal crop prospects, we have only to repeat what we have before said in these columns, that [illegible] to this date (for the season) we have [illegible] eight and a half inches of rain, and [illegible] two inches, or more than three [illegible] corresponding period last year, and [illegible] fall for the season is more than three [illegible] same period in 1870, yet the rain has been [illegible] more opportune, the soil and seed [illegible] and thus utilized in a much greater degree [illegible] poured out like a flood, to run to waste [illegible] larger breadth of land has been placed [illegible] and everyway better cultivated than [illegible] consequently, the general appearance of [illegible] throughout the broad expanse of [illegible] most cheering These remarks apply [illegible] and vegetables of every sort, prospects [illegible] plant crops.

[illegible] the past week the receipts of fresh Butter have [illegible] the market requirements and prices for [illegible] consequently lower Pickled Butter is [illegible] with scarcely any inquiry Eastern [illegible] offering at retail

Eggs [illegible] plentiful, and quotations are a trifle [illegible]

[illegible] Oregon Hams have declined to 25c per lb [illegible] 30c per lb, and Chicago Hams at [illegible]

[illegible] market has received further supplies of Oregon apples during the past week. By the box, Apples [illegible] to $3.

Pears are worth $2a4 50 per box.

The [illegible] brought 2 635 boxes Oregon [illegible] the invoice at $1a1 90 per box [illegible] Many were in bad condition [illegible] Los Angeles now come up by every steamer and are of choice quality

Dried Apples are becoming very scarce, and so of other [illegible] Prices are hardening

Shanghai dates of January 13th report the tea market as having been [illegible] for the previous month Black tea had been sold at 14½ to 20 taels for ordinary [illegible] the unsold stock being reduced to 11,330 chests [illegible] quality Settlements of green tea [illegible] on a basis of 20 taels for interior, 31 to [illegible] taels for good and 40 to 42½ taels for fine, unsold stock [illegible] chiefly common and low medium grades The exports of tea from Shanghai and river ports to the United States from June 1, 1870 to January 12, 1871 compare as follows with the corresponding period in the previous season

	1869-70	1870-71

[illegible] Colonial Government of British Columbia [illegible] of $1,500 for the first 250 tons [illegible] home to a foreign port. Subsequently [illegible] was discovered on Queen Charlotte [illegible] a company was organized for working [illegible] the Queen Charlotte Island Coal [illegible] After getting out about 1 000 tons [illegible] was chartered in San Francisco [illegible] the mine and return with a cargo She [illegible] Sunday with 450 tons, the same being [illegible] cargo exported from the mines but the first [illegible] discovered on the Pacific coast. A sample [illegible] exhibition at the Mechanic's Exchange yesterday [illegible] It is said to resemble the Lackawana description. The discovery is an important one to the manufacturing interests of California Hitherto all our hard coal has been imported from domestic Atlantic [illegible] the freight formerly costing from $15 to $18 per ton, though within a year or two it has been brought for [illegible] The deposit at Queen Charlotte Island is said to [illegible] and the cost of bringing the coal to this port is [illegible] [illegible] kett & Harrison have been appointed agents [illegible] San Francisco

[illegible] Callao dates to January 12th. Freights were [illegible] full except for Hamburg and Rotterdam, for which [illegible] five ships having been taken at [illegible] Antwerp 55s and Valencia, $15 Oregon [illegible] $47 The bark Pearl arrived with lumber [illegible] December 75 days from San Francisco [illegible] vessels had arrived during the fortnight [illegible] cleared, chiefly for the Guano Islands

[illegible] paraiso dates of January 2d quote a slight improvement in wheat closing firm at $3 45@3 50 ⅌ 155 lbs Flour $6 15@6 25 for Southern and $6 50@6 75 for Santiago brands. The barley crop was reported to be of good quality and the yield abundant, causing the price to decline to $2 26 ⅌ 156 lbs

Our Manila dates by the China steamer are to January 3d Large arrivals of flour from Hongkong had caused prices to decline to $6 75@7 25 per bbl in sks. Sales of coffee had been made at $11 and of superior sugar at $4 75 per picul Indigo was quoted at $40@$50 per quintal and cordage at $16 per picul Exports of sugar for 1867 amounted to 1 134 600 piculs, against 1,152,500 piculs in 1869 and 1 149,000 piculs in 1868 Of hemp, 489 000 bales was shipped in 1870 against 424 000 bales in 1869 and 460 000 bales in 1868

The Government had promulgated a new tariff, to take effect July 1, 1871 It is quite an improvement on the old, being more simplified and more specific By the new law, the duty on cotton staples is raised about 200 per cent, though there is no change in colored cottons. Flour will be admitted at $1 08 per 100 kilogrammes and coal will come in free The export duties will be as annexed per 100 kilogrammes hemp 20c, rice 5c, sugar, 17c coffee, 32c. To avoid fractions, exporters will charge 13 per cent. on hemp, 3½ per cent on rice, 11 per cent on sugar and 19 per cent on coffee There were no vessels up for San Francisco. The exports from this port in 1870 were considerably lighter than for the previous year A private telegram has just been received in this city, 13 days from Manila, announcing an advance of 50c per picul in the price of sugar
